

Housekeepers' Money-saving Day.

That The Washington Herald is a family newspaper is very evident—or the editors would not have been importuned for just such a day as now told of. Money is to be saved to-day in all the housekeepers' most wanted needs. Prices are made so much less than usual that some articles are to be limited only to Herald readers. Note the coupons.

COUPON.

This Coupon and twenty-nine (29) cents entitles bearer to one $1 Solid Oak 36-inch Plate Rack as illustrated, Saturday only, April 2, 1910.

COUPON.

This Coupon and twenty-four (24) cents entitles bearer to one 39c Palais Royal Floor Broom. Good only for Saturday, April 2, 1910.

The housekeeper knows that a good broom more often costs 45c than 39c in these days of rising prices—and will appreciate to-day's coupon. A careful study of the lists below will make it increasingly evident that to-day is to be a money-saving one for every wise housekeeper, and The Herald and the Palais Royal will get due thanks.

LABOR BERATES EDUCATION BODY

Sharp Letter Scores Board Over Morrill Act.

$50,000 THROWN TO WIND

Chairman Ryan, of Central Union Committee, Declares Action Affecting Industrial People of the District After Only Five Minutes' Deliberation Unworthy Public Men.

Another chapter was added yesterday to the controversy over the Morrill act when the board of education received from P. J. Ryan, chairman of the legislative committee of the Central Labor Union, a letter charging the board with throwing to the winds those large sums which rightly belong to the children of the industrial classes of the District.

The letter was brought forth by the board adopting a resolution declaring against the wisdom of placing upon the public school system of the District the burden of organizing and maintaining a college course in industrial arts. Mr. Ryan's letter is addressed to the board, and reads:

Letter to the Point.

An chairman of the legislative committee for the Central Labor Union, a delegate body representing 30,000 members of organized labor, who, with their families from nearly half of the population of the District of Columbia, I must enter a protest to the action of the board of education at its meeting, March 2.

It is inconceivable how thinking men could in five minutes deliberately consider a question which involves the interest of the public educational system of the District. You action, so far as your power in the matter goes, throws to the winds $50,000 a year that rightly belongs to the children of the industrial classes of the District.

Why Benefits Are Needed.

We stand for the extension of the benefits to the District, for the establishment of District colleges.

G. Y. ATLEE IS DEAD

Manager of Terra Cotta Firm Suffered Two Years.

LONG A PROMINENT MASON

Federal Lodge of Which He and His Father Had Each Been Worshipful Master, Will Have Charge of Funeral to Be Held Monday from Residence in S Street.

Goodwin Yorke Atlee, for many years secretary and general manager of the Potomac Terra Cotta Company, died at his residence, 1222 S Street, yesterday afternoon. He had been ill for about two years of Bright's disease.

Born in Detroit sixty-eight years ago, he was brought to Washington while a youth by his father, the late Samuel Yorke Atlee, librarian of the Treasury Department, a trustee of the public schools and president of the common council, before the civil war.

At the outbreak of the civil war, Goodwin Atlee joined the National Rifles, and after the muster out, returned to the service of the quartermaster's department, which he had left for the purpose of enlisting. In June, 1861, he married Mary Ellen, daughter of the late Dr. Henry Crossen, a Washington physician, and she survives him. His surviving children are, Lieut. William E. Atlee, of the Revenue Service; the Misses A. May Atlee and Louise Atlee, Mrs. Alfred T. Gage, of this city; Richard A. Atlee, of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Frank V. Atlee, of Richmond, Va.

SCHOOLMEN'S FINAL DINNER.

Dr. Henry Suzzelo Urges Socialization of Public Education.

At the final dinner of the Federal Schoolmen's Club last evening at the Ebbitt House, Dr. Henry Suzzelo, of Columbia University, made an address on "The socialization of public education." Declaring that modern educational methods cling to the traditional, without regard for the needs of the child or the social conditions under which he is to live, Dr. Suzzelo insisted that we must measure the efficiency of our public schools by social service. He declared this result could be attained only as teachers were recruited who had a scientific understanding of society, and that for adding in the socialization of public education there must be the fullest measure of co-operation by the parents, church, and related institutions.

The retiring president of the club, Arthur T. Ramsey, formally presented president-elect Willard S. Small, Ph. D. In a brief speech, Dr. Small proposed as a policy for the year, expansion of membership to seventy members, and a continued programme covering the most important topics in the field of educational practice. Officers of the club are Dr. Willard S. Small, president; J. Wallis, secretary; Percival Hall, treasurer; Dean H. L. Hodgkins, Dr. H. L. Hough, Prof. H. E. Hall, Myron Jernin Jones, and W. B. Patterson.

WOMAN ADDRESSES SCIENTISTS

Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams Before Geographic Society.

Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams, wife of Franklin Adams, of the Bureau of American Republics, addressed the National Geographic Society last night on "The Story of Argentina." The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views, and was one of the most entertaining of the series given this season by the National Geographic Society.

Mrs. Adams took her hearers on a picture trip, "Patagonia to Paraguay." The views of Rio Janeiro Bay, the pampas fields, and country scenes in Argentina were beautiful.

BICYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE.

Boy Slightly Injured in Accident Near Dupont Circle.

Allen Reeder, ten years old, is in bed at his home, 2126 Bancroft place northwest, after riding his bicycle into an automobile near Dupont Circle yesterday afternoon. In the auto was Samuel Kendall, Jr., of 1815 Columbia road northwest. Kendall lifted the lad into the automobile and drove to the Reeder home.

WAR SHIPS AT OLD POINT.

Large Crowds Going via Norfolk and Washington Steamboats.

With the North Atlantic fleet at Hampton Roads, and the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company offering special rate round trip tickets to Old Point, it is not surprising that the week finds many local people at the resort. Target practice off the Cape engages several vessels at intervals, but every day sees the roadstead dotted with many men-of-war. The Norfolk and Washington steamers sail through the anchored flotilla of ironclads, giving passengers an excellent view of the fighters.

Reduced rate tickets are offered every day with April 4 as the limit. Inclusive tickets, covering stadium expenses and board at the Chamberlin, Old Point, are also available.

The service maintained via the Norfolk and Washington fleet is daily, one of the company's handsome steamers leaving Seventh street wharf at 6:45 p. m., and arriving at Norfolk early in the morning. In the service at this writing are the Southland and Newport News, the newest and largest steamers of the fleet.

The uptown ticket agency is conveniently located at 720 Fourteenth street, Bond Building.

CENTRAL BODY PLAN FAVORED.

At the meeting of the Park View Citizens' Association last night the central organization plan of the Chamber of Commerce was adopted, providing the Chamber has no more representation than other organizations.

The plan of opening Park place was opposed, if it should be done at the expense of improved property.

DEMOCRATS FORCE TARIFF APPROVAL

resolution of the Senate or the House, or the order of the President. Mr. Gillett offered an amendment providing that discretion as to publicity of the returns shall be lodged only with the President.

He moved that that portion of the Hale amendment authorizing the publicity of corporations' reports upon the passage of a resolution by either house of Congress be stricken out.

The Democrats got busy as soon as the Gillett amendment was reported. Representative Bartlett clogged the legislative wheels by making the point of order that the Senate, in adopting the Hale amendment, had infringed the constitutional right of the House to originate revenue legislation. Mr. Bartlett wanted the Senate rebuked, but he was voted down.

Amendment by Fitzgerald.

Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, then jumped to the fore. He presented an amendment providing that the Gillett amendment should be recommitted, with instructions to the committee to report in favor of the repeal of the tariff law.

The Fitzgerald proposal created an uproar in the House. The insurgents began to scurry around, and for a time it was thought that some of them might be induced to jump the reservation and join with the Democrats in passing a vote in condemnation of the tariff law.

The insurgents thought it over, however, and came to the conclusion that it was neither the time nor the place to co-operate with the opposition in discrediting a law that had been passed by Republican votes and approved by a Republican President.

Speaker Cannon did not rule upon the Fitzgerald amendment on the instant. He asked for time, so that the Chair might find out where it is at. Precedents were consulted by "Uncle Joe," and he finally decided that the Fitzgerald amendment was out of order. Mr. Fitzgerald appealed from the decision of the Speaker, with the result that his motion was defeated by a strict party vote.

The legislative bill now goes into conference. No doubt is expressed by Republicans that an agreement will be reached on the amendment softening the effect of the publicity feature of the corporation tax law. This section of the law has been bitterly attacked ever since its enactment. The argument has been that its enforcement would work serious injury to many corporations without any advantage to the public.

Affects All Corporations.

It was pointed out that the law required publicity of the returns of all corporations, regardless of whether they were of a public character or not. In the debate yesterday it was argued that a small corporation, composed of two or more men, would have its inner workings spread on the public records for the benefit of competitors, while a concern operating under partnership arrangement would be free from such publicity. The argument was made further that the law drew class distinction and doubt was

WOMAN SUES FOR $20,000.

Della A. Hall yesterday filed suit against the Washington Railway and Electric Company for $20,000 damages.

She was injured July 27, 1909, while alighting from a car at Fifth street and Massachusetts avenue.
